

LIND'S PURPOSE
TOLD BY WILSON

tion of accusing the Republicans of playing "peanut politics" in the Mexican situation in order to embarrass the administration, brought about a situation in which the Senate and the White House were in danger of working at cross purposes.

No Fears for Lind's Safety.

President Wilson was not informed until the conclusion of the conference that Gov. Lind had landed in Vera Cruz. The administration, however, has had no fears for Gov. Lind's personal safety, since the Huerta government announced that every care would be taken to protect Gov. Lind's party from unpleasantness. A telegram from Foreign Minister Adalberto to Secretary Bryan, made public in Mexico City yesterday, reassured the State Department as to Mr. Lind's personal safety, but ended with the significant observation that "respecting mediation, of which mention has been made, the government of Mexico already has made its declaration."

INSTRUCTIONS AWAIT

LIND AT VERA CRUZ

The State Department, as far as any public activity is concerned, marked time during business hours yesterday.

To all outward appearances, there was nothing unusual in the air at the State, War, and Navy Building. Secretary of State Bryan met the newspaper men twice during the day. At the morning interview he denied that the battleship Texas had been ordered to proceed slowly to Vera Cruz in order to permit Charge d'Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City, to make specific representations to President Huerta.

Mr. Bryan could not say whether, upon his arrival at Vera Cruz, Mr. Lind would proceed immediately to Mexico City or whether he would be detained there for conference with Mr. O'Shaughnessy. Obviously, though, Mr. Lind's course will be dictated by the result of Mr. O'Shaughnessy's representations to Gen. Huerta, though it is now considered extremely probable that Huerta will assume any attitude which will make it inadvisable for Mr. Lind to proceed to Mexico City.

Secretary Bryan yesterday refused either to affirm or deny the statements to the effect that O'Shaughnessy has been instructed to inform Gen. Huerta in diplomatic, but unequivocal terms, that he will be held personally and politically responsible for any insults or injuries which Mr. Lind may suffer while in territory over which Huerta exercises control in the Southern republic.

It generally is understood, however, that Gen. Huerta will take particular pains in an unostentatious way to protect Gov. Lind, though he will do nothing which might be construed as a recognition of any official mission in the person of Gov. Lind.

When the department closed yesterday afternoon it had not been learned whether the New Hampshire had reached Vera Cruz or what results, if any, had come of O'Shaughnessy's representations to Gen. Huerta. As far as any statement from the department indicated, however, the New Hampshire did not reach Vera Cruz before 6 o'clock last night, though it was expected that information of her arrival would reach Washington later in the evening.

It was made public at the State Department that Envoy Lind will find specific instructions awaiting him when he lands at Vera Cruz. Obviously, though, the tenor of those instructions depends upon Huerta's attitude as indicated in advices from Charge d'Affaires.

Consul Boney reported to the State Department yesterday on conditions in San Luis Potosi, where recently broke out the severe conflicts between the Huerta forces and the rebels. In the Northern districts, he reported, satisfactory conditions are being established.

In the East, however, according to the Consul's information, the situation is not nearly so satisfactory. Americans throughout the district, he believes, are reasonably safe.

PROTECTION TO LIND

ASSURED BY HUERTA

Telegraphic reports from Mexico yesterday were decidedly reassuring in describing the apparent mental attitude of the Mexican populace and the officials of the Huerta regime who may come in contact with Gov. Lind and his party.

From all appearances the anti-American sentiment fired by Huerta's defiant note to the American Embassy has subsided and the people are willing to await further action from Huerta. It is apparent, given the truth of these reports, that Huerta may be held personally accountable for anything which resembles a general demonstration against Mr. Lind.

Gen. Huerta, however, has given it to be understood that he expects to afford Gov. and Mrs. Lind every protection in his power, and no doubt this has had a soothing effect upon the populace. Gov. Lind will land as a private citizen, and as such will be received by the Mexican military commander at Vera Cruz, incidental to that dignitary's exchange of official courtesies with the commander of the New Hampshire.

MEXICAN SITUATION
DISCUSSED IN SENATE

The debate in the Senate yesterday was unimportant, except as it indicated a belief on the part of leaders on both sides of the chamber that there has been too much talking there already.

Charges, which, it is true, would be difficult to substantiate, were made by Senator William Alden Smith and severely criticized by Senator Swanson.

The Senate leaders, however, were evidently of the opinion that President Wilson should receive at least the support of their noninterference, and the debate was not popular. Senator Crawford, of North Dakota, took some of his Republican colleagues severely to task for muddying the water at this time by discussions of collateral matters.

Senator William Alden Smith charged that Capt. Sherbourne Hopkins, a Washington attorney, agent for the Huerta interests in Mexico, carried powerful influence on the State Department under Secretary Knox, and said that he believed Hopkins still retains that influence with Secretary of State Bryan and had been responsible in large measure for the removal of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson.

Hopkins was distinctly persona non grata at the State Department during the Taft administration.

Senator Sheppard of Texas questioned the foundation for Senator Smith's charge that a Mexican lobby is active in Washington. Senator Smith was challenged to make his charge specific. He named Hopkins and a Lieut. Sommerfield as members of the Mexican junta in Washington, but when pressed refused to say that they had lobbied members of Congress.

Senator James demanded to know on what grounds Senator Smith said that FRANCISCO DE LA BARRA

Mexican Minister to France, arrived in New York on board the Ward liner Morrow Castle on his way to France on Friday. President Wilson ordered that the courtesies of the port be extended to him, thus recognizing him as a Mexican official. De la Barra, accompanied by his wife and children, is on his way to Paris to attend to his diplomatic business.

Hopkins had the ear of the State Department. "You ought to appear before the lobby committee yourself. That is a charge that ought not to pass unnoticed."

"I don't intend that it shall pass unnoticed," replied Senator Smith. "Senator Overman asked if Senator Smith would appear before the lobby committee."

"I will make my report to the United States Senate," replied Senator Smith with some asperity.

Senator Crawford of South Dakota brought the Mexican situation again before the Senate in a speech, in which he said that President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan are entitled to the entire, united, and complete support of the Senate.

"All intelligent Americans will applaud the patriotic speech of the Senator from South Dakota," said Senator Williams, who admitted that he was a "peace-at-any-price man." Having explained his desire for peace, Senator Williams then said:

"In a voice of warning I want to say that in my deliberate opinion there is an organized and syndicated effort to bring about war between the United States and Mexico."

He referred to the sameness of many newspaper editorials as proof of a war syndicate. He declared that all the money being used in this alleged concerted effort was not Mexican money. He said he did not feel brave "even with myself" when war with Mexico is considered, because it is now a stricken and disordered land.

"I would feel more brave, perhaps, if we were talking about war with a nation that can stand on its own feet."

Representative Kahn of California, issued a statement yesterday in which he urged that a concert of American powers be formed for the purpose of settling the troubles in Mexico. He declared that the republic of Brazil, Argentine, and Chile, should be invited to co-operate with the United States in a mediation plan in Mexico.

Capt. Hopkins Refutes Charges. Capt. S. C. Hopkins, who was accused by Senator Smith of being at the head of the Madero lobby, issued this statement:

"The charges of Senator William Alden Smith, as reported in the afternoon papers, are deliberately and ridiculously false in every respect. I have personally spoken to but one Senator relative to affairs in Mexico and then in regard to protection for certain American citizens in Sonora, which, through Mr. Perez Romero, I was happily able to forward secure. I have never discussed Mexican affairs with any one connected with the Department of State since the advent of the present administration, nor have I requested any one to seek any information for me from that department or to try to influence its policy."

"Mr. Perez Romero, confidential agent of the Constitutional government in Washington, since his stay of three months here, has discussed the situation in Mexico with one Senator only and then in the most casual manner. He has had no conversations whatsoever with any person connected with the Department of State."

"Mr. Felix A. Sommerfield, special agent of the Constitutional government, has had no discussion on this subject with any one connected with the United States government."

"Col. Eduardo Hay, chief of staff of the Governor of Sonora, came to Washington two weeks ago, and, as a private citizen, met several Senators and gave them the benefit of his wide knowledge of the situation. Col. Hay later was invited to appear before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations."

DE LA BARRA SAYS

WILSON RESIGNATION
DID NOT HELP MATTERS

New York, Aug. 9.—Francisco Leon de la Barra, the Mexican Ambassador to France, who has been Provisional President of Mexico when Diaz was deposed, stated today that John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, will be shown every consideration and afforded ample protection in Mexico. Talk of mob violence, he said, is not to be accepted as representing the views of the intelligent people of Mexico.

"Mexico is facing a grave crisis," said Ambassador de la Barra, "but I know my countrymen would be the first to resist any insult that might be offered to Gov. Lind. He will land in Vera Cruz and travel to Mexico City by train unmolested. It is folly to suggest that he will be subjected to any personal danger. But Mexicans feel that it is their duty and not the privilege of another nation to determine the legality of the provisional government."

"How can we receive President Wilson's personal envoy so long as this nation refuses to acknowledge the existence of a constitutional government in Mexico? Recognition, not mediation, friendship, not criticism, encouragement, not jingoism, are the things needed to avert a more serious crisis below the Rio Grande."

Ambassador Wilson served his country ably and well," continued Mr. de la Barra. "He understood the situation in Mexico. Mexicans understood Ambassador Wilson and had confidence in his integrity and honesty of purpose. His resignation will not serve to make the relations between the two countries in this crisis more amiable."

Asked if he would enter the contest for the Presidency, he replied: "No, I am out of politics for all time."

Gen. Felix Diaz will remain in the race for the Presidency, Mr. de la Barra said, but he was of no importance in the Presidential campaign. He said President Taft recognized the provisional government when Gen. Diaz resigned and went into exile.

FOREIGN MINISTER

DECLARES GOV. LIND TO BE IN NO DANGER

Mexico City, Aug. 9.—Replying tonight to a message from Secretary of State Bryan calling attention to reports of threats made against the life of Envoy Lind, Foreign Minister Adalberto reiterated the position of the government in respect to mediation. He was superseded by Francisco de la Barra, who took the oath today as foreign minister.

Senator Adalberto's statement reads: "Answering your telegram to President Huerta, the rumors mentioned are absolutely without foundation. Mr. Lind, like any foreigner, may pass through the country without being subject to any molestation."

"American citizens, like other foreigners, have enjoyed and will continue to enjoy the most complete guarantees on the part of the Mexican government and people. All are under the protection of our laws and the case of Mr. Lind will not modify our intentions and precedents."

"Furthermore, there should exist neither fear nor anxiety respecting the security of foreigners. Respecting mediation, of which mention has been made in the government of Mexico already has made its declaration."

Preparations are being made for the great popular demonstration tomorrow to show public support of Huerta's stand against the United States. Although assurances have been given that the demonstration will not be of an anti-American character, an outbreak is looked for and those Americans who can do so are leaving the city with their families.

TELEPHONE MONOPOLY.

Testimony as to the Benefits and Burdens of Competition.

Whatever may be the conditions of monopoly or competition existing in the telephone field, one thing is sure—Seattle does not want two telephone systems. The regulation and control of telephones is a subject well worth consideration; the matter of rates and service is something that can always stand scrutiny, but there is one absolute certainty, and that is that one system is sufficient for this municipality.

Competing telephone systems are as far as competing postoffices would be. They would not only be futile, but we know from past experience that two telephones are a nuisance. The telephone as the best is an irritating necessity, and forcing the telephone only increases the irritation and the expense.

The theory that a competitive condition holds the rates down is not sound, and was so proved here in Seattle. The company that charged the higher rate always had the greater number of subscribers. The competing company came to ruin through its own growth, and this growth was fostered by many well-meaning persons obsessed with a wrong idea. The independent company found itself in the position of being obliged to furnish service to many more subscribers than its rates contemplated. Whatever the treatment accorded it by the absorbing company may have been, it was of small interest to the people of this community.

Our only interest in the matter is to get one telephone system, and now we have and assuredly we want to keep it. The various telephone corporations may have all the laws they want and go to what lengths they like among themselves, as far as the public is concerned. All the public wants is one system, good service, and honest rates. If we cannot have good service at fair rates, we shall feel permitted to make such complaint and invoke such laws as will bring about a remedy. But our interest in the competitive features of various lines, as long as they do not affect service or cost, is small. If there are communities in the State which suffer by reason of existing conditions, let these conditions be remedied. But under no consideration do we want two telephone systems in Seattle.

Measuring a Plant's Drink. From the July Strand.

When we cut flowers we put them in water to keep them fresh. Like human beings, they can exist for long periods of water alone, as the liquid forms a considerable portion of their bulk. The drinking capabilities of plants vary a great deal, and at a recent scientific exhibition held at Surbiton, England, some ingenious devices were shown to register the different actions of plant life. The apparatus consists of a twin glass tube with a coiled formation at the base. The flower is placed through a cork into the water in the upper end of the branch tube, and the lower end, which is inserted in a vessel filled with water, is lifted out and replaced, thus allowing an air bubble to enter the tube. As the plant drinks the water the bubble is forced along the coiled glass tube as fresh water enters behind it, and the amount taken by the flower is, of course, the quantity behind the air lobe.

Oregonian Will. From the New York Sun.

C. S. Jackson, of the Oregon Journal, has the distinction of starting a phrase that New York is repeating. He was preaching the get-there doctrine. "There's a man in Portland," said he, "who was such a dead end on the way he was run over by a stationary engine."

Jackson said that two frogs were taking their morning exercise when they leaped into jars of cream. "Hold-up! Hold-up!" boomed one frog, said he. "From the next jar the other frog could be heard bellowing: 'Hustle! Hustle! Hustle!' In the morning the frog that yelled for help was eating the other, and the amount taken by the frog of butter, trying to pat it into shape to sell."

FUNERAL PARTY
NEARLY WRECKED

Cars of Train Bearing Senator Johnston's Remains Leave Track.

BODY AND ESCORT SAFE

Six of Crew Are Injured—Members of Congress, with Family, Continue Journey.

The locomotive and four cars of the funeral train bearing the body of the late Senator Joseph F. Johnston, of Alabama, from Washington to Birmingham and carrying the escort of Senators and Representatives were derailed at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Norris, S. C. Six members of the crew of the train were injured slightly.

The cause of the accident so far has not been determined. The train was traveling at a good rate of speed when suddenly the engine, mail car, two baggage and express cars, and the dinner left the rails. P. S. Titman, postal clerk, was bruised about the body, and a colored fireman and four colored dining car employees received minor injuries. The dining car and mail car were badly damaged.

The Pullman observation car and two sleeping cars, occupied by the Congressional escort and members of the Johnston family, did not leave the rails, but the occupants were shaken up considerably. Immediately following the accident a sleeping car and a diner were sent from Atlanta to meet the wrecked train and proceed to Birmingham. The train is scheduled to reach Birmingham by 6:30 o'clock this morning. The party stopped at Greenville, S. C., for supper.
